The creation of a long lasting research community on engineering secure Future Internet services. We will efficiently and successfully integrate and extend the scattered efforts currently performed in several existing communities. NESSoS will contribute to the creation of a scientific discipline in secure software based services and systems engineering, with its own results, events, publications, community etc. Overall this will contribute to increase the trustworthiness of the Future Internet by improving the security of software services and systems as a whole.